

Conservation On the Ground - Eufaula Depot Renovation

The Barbour County town of Eufaula is vibrant with history. The once active train depot in downtown Eufaula, like many train depots throughout the land, was wasting away. To protect the structure from further decay, the Wiregrass RC&D Council assisted the Eufaula/Barbour County Chamber of Commerce with a downtown renovation project. The historic train depot was renovated as a museum and the chamber offices. This project was part of an overall downtown renovation that the city hopes will attract new businesses to the downtown Eufaula area.

The renovation project restored the historic landmark and turned it into a productive part of the downtown area.

NRCS District Conservationist Ed Holley discusses renovation with Chamber Executive Director Billy Houston.
